THE DARING YOUNG MAN

BRIAN sat at the end of the soda bar biting his nails. He was scowling into his malted and mumbling between sips. "First she wants a sportsman, then a musician, now a man with daring! I give up!" He took a long drink through the straw.

"Where's your gee-tar, Brian?" Bill called as he entered the door.

Brian's hands became fists. "Don't talk to me about guitars or music of any form or shape. I'm through, definitely through."

Bill ambled over. "Now what? Doesn't Amy like musicians any more?" He sat down on the stool beside Brian's.

"Nope." He turned to face his friend. "Y'know, I've done everything for that chick. First, she saw a movie about tennis players." Brian's eyes rolled to the ceiling, and he ran his fingers through his hair. "Nothing would do except that I had to become a tennis player. I worked my hands to the bones. I practiced and ran my legs off on every court in town until I was perfect. Just as I was about to become a champ, what happened?"

"What?" Bill asked innocently.

"I took her to another movie and she swooned over a gent who played a guitar. Where did I come in?"

"You had to play a gee-tar?"

"Yep. What else? Do you think I liked that noise box?"

"Well, frankly, I didn't know."

"If you're still interested, let me tell you another thing. I wasn't born to be a musician, and I don't like plucking a bunch of strings." Brian sipped more malted. "Well, to make a musical story even shorter, just as I was playing pretty good. . . ."

"You sure are, Brian. That's why I'm here. I want to hire you."

"How? Why?" Brian wasn't too interested. His fingers still hurt from the long hours of practice on the noise box known as a guitar.

"Would you serenade Jeanie for me Saturday night under her window? Say, I have an idea. Why don't you go into business? I'll bet every junior in high school would hire you."

Brian gulped. "That's all I need now to lose Amy extra fast. Nix, no professional serenading for me."

"What's wrong with it? You could make a real pile of money for your dates with Amy. Bet she'd go for it."

"Listen, my friend, I threw that guitar into the river just three minutes ago."

"You're kidding."

"I'm not. So long, Bill." Brian lifted himself from the stool.

"Where're you going?" Bill called excitedly.

"Dunno except I gotta be daring. Out with the tennis racket—out with the gee-tar—on with the trapeze and some dizzy stuff."

Bill followed him. "Explain."

"Last night I took Amy to a movie about a gent who did everything but swallow a sword. So help me he went to the bottom of the sea, he climbed the Empire State Building, he piloted a ship across rough seas—he did everything." Brian sighed. "Amy loved it, so now I gotta match that!"

"Why don't you give up?" Bill asked. "I can fix it up for you with a hep chick who demands nothing, only you. How about it? Forget Amy."

"No. If she wants daring now, I'll latch onto daring. I can't give up after weeks with a tennis racket and a guitar."

"What's the blueprint?"

"How does window cleaning sound to you? A man high above the crowds polishing windows. All he has is a safety belt between him and certain death."

Bill shuddered. "Come off it. Don't be a fool."

Brian waved and wandered off towards the Shiny Window Service. They hired him immediately because men were hard to get. Brian practiced on a window on the first floor, then the second floor. He did a window on the third floor, always seeing to it that his belt was fastened securely. On the fourth floor he became scared. The belt was secure, the clamps tight, but when he looked down, his stomach turned around twice. But when he pictured Amy watching him next Saturday polishing windows on Main Street twenty stories up, he gained courage. Amy would know then that he was daring, with a capital D.

On the fifteenth floor, the boss told him. "Young man, next Saturday I'm sure you'll be ready for the twentieth floor."

"Yes, I sure will," Brian answered shakily.

On Friday, Brian sent Amy a note. "Look up to the Woolright Building at 3 PM on Saturday. You'll see the most daring young man in town going through his paces."

He watched her read the note. She smiled his way. Brian pounded his chest proudly and reminded her they had a date Saturday night. She nodded happily.

Saturday Brian hiked himself over to the Shiny Window Service. "Here I am," he announced. "I'm the daring young man you hired. Remember?"

"Yep, I remember. You're the boy who wants to go up to the twentieth story of the Woolright Building. Right?"

"Reet!" Brian took his paraphernalia and hurried towards the Woolright Building. He took the elevator up to the twentieth floor. Amy would be gazing up in a few minutes. In a few minutes he would be a daring young man and in a few minutes he would win her eternal affection. This was much easier than tennis or guitars. "Yeah?" he mumbled as he felt his stomach do a turn. "Who am I kidding?"

Well, our hero climbed out of the window with shaking limbs. He fastened both clamps securely and tried them ten times. He tested his belt twenty times. Then he looked down on Main Street. "Yipes and, yoweeeee," he muttered. Then the horrible thought came to him. How could he identify Amy? Every head below him looked alike. Amy could be any dot in the maze of ants swarming on the sidewalk.

"I should have stuck to my tennis or even to that gee-tar," he told himself as he swayed above the crowds. He whipped out a cloth and started to mop the window pane as he had been instructed.

"Brian—Brian," he heard faintly. He swayed and glanced down to the street. "Brian," came again. It was louder this time. It was inside!

Brian polished a circle in the window with shaky hands. Just as he thought. There was Amy's lovely face framed in the sparkling glass.

"Amy!" he shouted. "Why aren't you on Main Street?" He leaned back on his belt.

"Brian, please be careful," she exclaimed as she opened the window to help him in.

"Well, how do you like me?" he questioned. "Daring, huh? I'm not scared, not a bit. In fact I like it out here."

"You're very daring, Brian," Amy told him, "but I saw the most thrilling picture last night. It was all about a poet." She gazed at him dreamily.

"A poet, huh? You mean . . . ?"

"Brian, do you think you could write poetry?"

Brian looked down to the street for the last time. He felt the belt around him and he felt the clamps. "Let me in," he shouted as he unfastened his belt and leaped inside. "I'll take the poetry any day. Just give me time. Monday, I'll buy a pencil and a pad of paper." He unlatched his straight-jacket.

"Oh, will you, Brian?" Amy cried ecstatically. "You'll write poetry?"

"I sure will. Let's see; roses are red, violets are blue and stuff. You know what, Amy?"

"What?"

"I may have looked daring and happy out there on that sill, clamped in that belt, but you won't see a happier guy in the world than me, seated on a mushroom writing poetry on Monday."

"Oh, Brian, you're so wonderful," Amy chirped.

"C'mon, let's go. I gotta return this junk to the Shiny Window Service."

Amy trotted beside him with her eyes full of love. "Maybe you'll be a famous poet some day."

"That's okay with me." Brian swung his pail happily as he pictured himself a famous poet. Then he looked down at the junk he was carrying. He gulped. Only Hollywood knew what he'd be doing next. He'd better write and ask them to lay off busting broncho pictures for awhile—at least until he caught his breath.

"I WAS ASHAMED OF MY FACE

until Viderm made my dreams of a clearer skin come true in one short week"

(FROM A LETTER TO BETTY MEMPHIS SENT HER BY ETHEL JORDAN, DETROIT, MICH.)

If your face is broken out, if bad skin is making you miserable, here is how to stop worrying about pimples, blackheads and other externally caused skin troubles.

JUST FOLLOW SKIN DOCTOR'S SIMPLE DIRECTIONS

"I just want to be alone!" Is there anything more awful than the blues that come when your face is broken out and you feel like hiding away because of pimples, blackheads and similar externally caused skin troubles? I know how it feels from personal experience. And I can appreciate the wonderful, wonderful joy that Ethel S. Jordan felt when she found something that not only promised her relief—but gave it to her in just one short week!

When I was having my own skin troubles, I tried a good many cosmetics, ointments and whatnot that were recommended to me. I remember vividly how disappointed I felt each time, until I discovered the skin doctor's formula now known as the Double Viderm Treatment. I felt pretty wonderful when friends began to rave about my "movie-star skin." No more self-consciousness. No more having my friends feel sorry for me. The secret joy, again, of running my fingertips over a smoother, clearer skin.

Many women shut themselves out of the thrills of life—dates, romance, popularity, social and business success—only because sheer neglect has robbed them of the good looks, poise and feminine self-assurance which could so easily be theirs. Yes, everybody looks at your face. The beautiful complexion, which is yours for the asking, is like a permanent card of admission to all the good things of life that every woman craves. And it really can be yours —take my word for it!—no matter how discouraged you may be this very minute about those externally caused skin miseries.

A screen star's face is her fortune. That's why she makes it her business to protect her complexion against pimples, blackheads and blemishes. Your face is no different. Give it the Double Treatment it needs and watch those skin blemishes go away.

What Makes "Bad Skin" Get That Way?

Medical science gives us the truth about how skin blemishes usually develop. There are small specks of dust and dirt in the air all the time. When these get into the open pores in your skin, they can in time "stretch" the pores and make them large enough to pocket dirt particles, dust and infection. These open pores become infected and bring you the humiliation of pimples, blackheads or other blemishes. Often, the natural oils that lubricate your skin will harden in the pores and result in unsightly blemishes.

When you neglect your skin by not giving it the necessary care, you leave yourself wide open to externally caused skin miseries. Yet proper attention with the Double Viderm Treatment may mean the difference between enjoying the confidence a fine skin gives you or the embarrassment of an ugly, unbeautiful skin that makes you want to hide your face.

The Double Viderm Treatment is a formula prescribed with amazing success by a dermatologist and costs you only a few cents daily. This treatment consists of two jars. One contains Viderm Skin Cleanser, a jelly-like formula which penetrates your pores and acts as an antiseptic. After you use this special Viderm Skin Cleanser, you simply apply the Viderm Fortified Medicated Skin Cream. You rub this in, leaving an almost invisible protective covering for the surface of your skin.

This double treatment has worked wonders for so many cases of external skin troubles that it may help you, too —in fact, your money will be refunded if it doesn't. Use it for only ten days. You have everything to gain and nothing to lose. It is a guaranteed treatment. Enjoy it. Your dream of a clearer, smoother complexion may come true in ten days or less.

Use your Double Viderm Treatment every day until your skin is smoother and clearer. Then use it only once a week to remove stale make-up and dirt specks that infect your pores, as well as to aid in healing external irritations. Remember that when you help prevent blackheads, you also help to prevent externally caused skin miseries and pimples.

Just mail your name and address to Betty Memphis, care of the New York Skin Laboratory, 206 Division Street, Dept. 99, New York 2, N. Y. By return mail you will receive the doctor's directions, and both jars, packed in a safety-sealed carton. On delivery, pay two dollars plus postage. If you wish, you can save the postage fee by mailing the two dollars with your letter. Then, if you are in any way dissatisfied, your money will be cheerfully refunded. To give you an idea of how fully tested and proven the Viderm Double Treatment is, it may interest you to know that, up to this month, over two hundred and thirty-one thousand women have ordered it on my recommendation. If you could only see the thousands of happy, grateful letters that have come to me as a result, you would know the joy this simple treatment can bring. And, think of it!—the treatment must work for you, or it doesn't cost you a cent.
